KNOTHOLE CODE OF ETHICS

The team manager is first and foremost a leader amongst youth. By their conduct, and attitude they should set forth exemplary good character, sportsmanship, and moral standards.

The Manager should provide the opportunity for as many players as possible to participate in the game. The manager should attempt to instill responsibility for equipment, the care of the grounds, backstops, and the prevention of vandalism.

Each Manager should continually strive to promote a friendly relationship with other managers, and be well informed regarding Knothole rules and procedures.

Managers should instruct coaches, players, and fans that the umpires are in complete charge of the ballgame. The umpires are to be given full respect during and after the game.

The Manager should endeavor to raise the standards of all coaches and players on his / her team to the highest level in sportsmanship, team play, and in fair play.
